SOLDIERS' HEADSTONES ARRIVE.

The consignment of headstones ordered last fall by the commander of William P. Russell post, G. A. R., from the assistant quartermaster general stationed at Boston, has arrived and are being set in place by Olney Comstock in the West and Catholic cemeteries. They are of white marble, four feet long, 14 inches wide and four inches thick with rounded tops. They are to be set in cement, about two feet rising above the ground. There are several soldiers graves in the local cemeteries that have no markers which will have one of these stones to mark their resting place.

ADDISON COUNTY COURT.

Fred Garvey Sentenced to Windsor Prison.

The first criminal trial of the term was started late Thursday afternoon of last week, after the jury in the Ward vs Ward case had retired for consultation. The case was State vs Fred Garvey, and it took the rest of the afternoon to get a jury.

State's Attorney Allen R. Sturtevant of Middlebury conducted the prosecution, and Ira H. LaFleur of Middlebury was the respondent's counsel.

In this case Respondent Garvey was charged with having broken into the house of Charles Peters of Bridport in the day time on the 10th day of December last and with stealing therefrom $18 in money and a number of small articles, all to the value of $50, thus combining the crimes of burglary and grand larceny. Garvey is 30 years old, a former resident of Middlebury, and has been married since he was 21. He and his wife have been living in and around Bridport most of the time since their marriage nine years ago and have worked for several different parties. At the time of the burglary the pair were living at Peter Lavalley's, a short distance from the Peters' house, at which, for a short time, the couple had been staying up to a week before.

Mr. Peters was living alone in his house and on the morning of December 10 started for the cheese factory with his milk at about 8 o'clock. Upon his return at about 11 o'clock he discovered that some one had entered the house during his absence by pulling a staple holding a padlock to one of the two doors to the house; and upon investigation he found that a tin box which he had concealed in a larger wooden box up stairs was gone, together with its contents. Besides the $18 the box contained two deeds; several photographs and tints, and a bunch of keys.

Peters went to the Lavalley house that day at noon, just as Mr. and Mrs. Lavalley and the respondent and Mrs. Garvey were finishing dinner, and made announcement of the break and his loss. Everybody there appeared to be astonished at the news, and nothing further of consequence happened until March 3, on which date Garvey was arrested; since then he has been in the county jail in Middlebury for lack of $500 bail. However, developments in the meanwhile had come to the effect that the bunch of keys had been found and turned over to Mr. Lavalley, and that the deeds, photographs, etc., had been destroyed by fire. It was claimed by the State that on the morning after the robbery Garvey started for Vergennes afoot and blew in the proceeds of the robbery before he got back to Bridport a week later.

There were a large number of witnesses for the two sides and both Garvey and his wife testified for the defense. For the respondent there was set up an alibi, showing that he was absolutely somewhere else at the precise time that, according to Mr. Peters, the robbery had taken place, with a strong intimation that one of the chief witnesses for the State was himself, the guilty man. Judge Miles gave the case to the jury a little after six o'clock, appointing Mr. Russell of Monkton their foreman.

The jury was out on the case all night and came into court at the opening Saturday morning, asking for further instructions. At 11 o'clock they came back and the foreman announced that they had been unable to agree. The court sent them back to their consultation room and in half an hour they came in once more, this time to announce that they had found the respondent guilty of grand larceny, instead of burglary in the daytime.

The court retired for counsel and upon returning, brief remarks were made for the State by Mr. Sturtevant and in behalf of the respondent by Mr. LaFleur. Garvey declined to say anything for himself when given the chance, and after administering to him a strong dose of good advice, Judge Miles sentenced him to serve not more than two years and not less than one and one-half years at hard labor in the State prison at Windsor.

A criminal case somewhat outside of the usual procedure was taken up during the noon recess on Friday, the court coming in at 1:15 o'clock for the purpose. The case was State vs Minnie Boulia, an 18-year-old Bridport girl who was charged with having set fire to a barn owned by Michael St. George in Bridport on February 9, 1916. The proceedings were merely pro forma, a jury being hastily got together without a challenge and Lewis C. Bain of Bristol being made their foreman. It was proven that the respondent had beyond doubt set fire to the barn, which together with its contents of $60 or $70 worth of hay, grain and farming implements, had burned to the ground. The State's attorney

FRESH AIR CHILDREN.

Plans Well Under Way for Their Reception Here.

Sometimes it is sidewalks, and sometimes it is Fresh Air kids. The sidewalk conspiracy having nearly reached a successful issue, we can attend to the youngsters.

Here are a few words from a letter just received from the manager of the Tribune Fresh Air Fund, Mr. Leslie N. Conly:

"The Board of Education estimates that there are, in the schools of New York, 100,000 poor children suffering from lack of food! Every one of them ought to have a country vacation with plenty of milk and eggs, sunshine and play in the open this summer. But they stand no chance of getting these vacations if you and the rest of our good friends in the country do not help us."

"We appeal to you in the name of humanity—in the name of childhood." We know this whole story. We do not need to have it repeated. But what are we going to do about it? Well, we are going to help a little if we can. And we can. A whole lot of people got away from the sidewalk racket who will not escape when it comes to the "Fresh Airs." Besides, there are people who will be glad to help the kids who were not very much interested in the walk. Then, too, a quarter will make more of a show in the case of the children. It takes only twenty quarters to keep a kid for two whole weeks. Just $5.00 turns the trick. And surely, we have a lot of quarters—and now and then a $5.00 bill—in this prosperous community, for this work.

So look alive. The solicitors will be after you. This is how the account closed in 1915 and opened in 1916:

Balance forward from 1916	$2 08
Oct. 6, 1915, "A Friend"	42
Oct. 6, 1915 New bal.	$2 50
Oct. 6, 1915, Spent for kids at Rummage sale	2 30
New balance forward to 1916	20

Not a great fund with which to start, but the concern is certainly solvent.

Again the Register has kindly agreed to publish the names of all contributors and the amounts given.

VERGENNES CELEBRATES.

The 150th anniversary of the settlement of Vergennes was held under lowering skies Tuesday, July 4th.

On account of the rain the exercises in connection with the placing of a marker at Arnold's bay, Pantown, under the auspices of the Vermont Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, which were to have been held in the park, were held in the Methodist Church Redfield Proctor, president of the society, presided. Prayer was offered by the chaplain of the society, the Rev. I. C. Smart of Burlington. The other members of the society present were the vice president, Judge Frank L. Fish, the secretary, Walter H. Crockett and H. S. Howard, a member of the board of managers of Burlington.

The address was given by the Rev. G. Glenn Atkins of Providence, R. I.

Despite the occasional showers of the morning all of the events scheduled on the program were given, with the exception of the horse race. The program opened with a concert in the park by the Vergennes City band.

In the evening a company of boys in the uniform of sailors were put through fancy drill movements under the direction of Dr. C. H. Cole and H. W. Day. The boys made a fine appearance, and were given generous applause. In the evening there was also a concert by the Vergennes City band, illumination on the park and a street carnival, during which fun and frolic reigned supreme. The crowning event of the evening program was the masquerade novelty ball in the upper hall of the opera house, with music by Felton's orchestra of St. Albans.

The weather throughout the three days' celebration was unpropitious, yet all in all the celebration was a marked success and the attendance good.

At one o'clock came the street parade, headed by the State Industrial school band and a delegation from the school, followed by the members of the Vergennes fire department, a body of horsemen, a company of boys in sailor uniform, under command of Dr. C. H. Cole, Vergennes City band, city officials, a large number of school children, each carrying a flag, decorated floats and automobiles, the line of march being through the principal streets. An attractive number of the program was the folk dance by little children, which was to have been given out of doors, but on account of the rain was given in the city hall. The children have been carefully drilled by Miss Edna Dickinson, but in her unavoidable absence Miss Katherine Fish acted in her place.
